

Project 2025

Project 2025 Opening Statement

America's Bicentennial, which culminated on July 4, 1976, was a spirited and unifying celebration of our country, its Founding, and its ideals. As we approach our nation's 250th anniversary, which will take place during the next presidency, America is now divided between two opposing forces: woke revolutionaries and those who believe in the ideals of the American revolution. The former believe that America is—and always has been—"systemically racist" and that it is not worth celebrating and must be fundamentally transformed, largely through a centralized administrative state. The latter believe in America's history and heroes, its principles and promise, and in everyday Americans and the American way of life. They believe in the Constitution and republican government. Conservatives—the Americanists in this battle—must fight for the soul of America, which is very much at stake.

<https://www.project2025.org/about/advisory-board/>

<https://www.project2025.org/policy/>

Paul Dans

Heritage Foundation director of "Project 2025" the Presidential Transition Project

Stephen Miller

President of the Maga-allied legal group "America First Legal" Miller's legal group, collected $44m dollars in 2022, also has a board seat with Project 2025

Gene Hamilton

Dept. of Justice Counselor to the Attorney General at the DOJ from 2017-2021

"..Large swaths of the DOJ have been captured by an un-accountable bureaucratic managerial class and radical Left ideologues who have embedded themselves throughout its offices and components"

Christopher C. Miller

Dept. of Defense Acting Secretary of Defense, from Nov. 9, 2020, until Jan. 20, 2021.

"..those with gender dysphoria should be expelled from military service."

Ken Cuccinelli

Dept. of Homeland Security Deputy Director of the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) in June 2019.

"..Our primary recommendation is that the President pursue legislation to dismantle the Department of Homeland Security (DHS)"

Success Stories

During his presidency, Donald Trump nominated three individuals to the Supreme Court: Neil Gorsuch, Brett Kavanaugh, and Amy Coney Barrett. These nominations were influenced by lists of potential candidates that were initially provided during his campaign and later updated during his presidency. These lists were compiled with the assistance of conservative organizations, including The Heritage Foundation and The Federalist Society.

Project 2025

is a coalition of 80+ conservative organizations joined together to form the project pillars

Policy Agenda

Presidential Personnel Database

Presidential Administration Academy

Playbook for the first 180 Days

Four Pillars of Project 2025 video